

Complex variables in real problems: a case study.
Spectrum of Toeplitz operators.

Prof. Grigori Rozenblum

Abstract

It happens sometimes that in a mathematical problem concerning real variables, it becomes necessary to introduce a complex variable, sometimes in a rather fancy way. In the talk we are going to discuss some classical examples and explain how complex analysis helps to study eigenvalue distribution of Toeplitz operators.